CORONATION CELEBRATION IS PLANNED

Enthusiastic Response to Meeting

Fireworks Display Suggested as Part of Celebration Program—Meeting Again This Evening.

A meeting called by Mayor Pattinson to discuss arrangements for observing the Coronation of King George VI was held in the council chamber on Thursday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. Representatives of local organizations present were Mr. Opalski, Albert Kolbert, Polish Society; J. Rushton, W. Jenkins, Elks; Mr. Webster, I.O.O.F.; H. Wilton-Clark, M. W. Cooke, Masonic Lodge; Col. R. F. Barnes, W. S. Purvis, Canadian Legion; J. Mayerchak, Steve Siska, Slovak Societies; A. McCulloch, St. John Ambulance Association; A. Toppano, Italian Society; R. M. Greenhalgh, W. Fraser, school trustees; J. M. Allan town council; Rev. A. S. Partington, St. Alban's church; Rev. Father Dunbar, Holy Ghost church; Rev. H. J. Bevan, St. Paul's United church; Lieut. Fitch, Salvation Army.

Briefly explaining the object of the meeting, to which himself and Councillor Allan had been appointed to represent the council, Mayor Pattinson declared the meeting open for discussion.

On motion of Purvis-Allan, the motion carried that a suitable celebration be arranged; carried unanimously.

M. W. Cooke suggested that arrangements be made so that if inclement weather prevailed, the program could be carried through in the arena instead of the sports ground.

R. M. Greenhalgh suggested that a sports program be arranged in addition to the patriotic

Legion Will Observe Vimy Anniversary

W. S. Purvis Installed as President and Col. R. F. Barnes, Secretary, for 1937.

Meeting in the council chamber on Sunday afternoon, the executive of the Canadian Legion and the Women's Auxiliary decided to commemorate the anniversary of the battle of Vimy Ridge with a banquet in the Oddfellows' hall on Saturday, April 10, at 6 p.m. sharp, followed by a short dance.

Accommodation will be provided for 110, and tickets will be available at 75¢ each. An address will be given by the chaplain, Rev. H. J. Bevan, and the usual toasts, interspersed with musical numbers.

The Legion executive discussed the much-talked of club building, and after going over figures submitted to table the matter till after their annual carnival to be held on May 29 and 31. They have purchased a piece of property from the C.P.R. on Main street at a building site. It was proposed that a building costing about $10,000 be erected.

President Purvis expressed the appreciation of the executive to Harold Turner, secretary for two and three years, with whom he stated his admiration and respect, and whom he said was at a low ebb. He hoped he would continue to give the executive his co-operation.

Steps will be taken to place all ex-service men in active membership in the branch, and to make continued efforts towards the erection of a club.

Police Busy in Early Morning on Sunday

Spread the Dragnet Saturday Night and Raided Two Gaming Houses.

The police court on Monday morning opened bright and early with a number of charges for gambling under Section 226 of the Criminal Code.

The first was a charge against Harry Chakinda of East Coleman for keeping a gaming house. At 1:30 a.m., March 21, Sergeant Cawsey and his men raided the place where a merry game of draw poker was in progress and about a dozen were there. So completely surprised was the gathering that they were caught with the cards before them and their money placed as bets. Their names were taken, and summons were issued to appear in court before Magistrate Greenham on Tuesday morning.

At 2 a.m. Chief Antle and night constable Nitigak pounded down on Peter Chow's laundry on East Main Street and here a very keen game of Black Jack was in progress, with cards spread out before the players with 25¢ on each card. Peter was charged on Monday, but pleading not guilty the case was adjourned till Tuesday morning, when he was fined $25.00 and costs.

Canadians and Leafs Clash at Arena To-night

Coleman Canadians and Lethbridge Maple Leafs will clash at the local arena to-night in the first of their two game home and home series for the league championship and Wright cup.

Since last seen here Lethbridge have been going places and are now western Canada intermediate champions. Hope springs ever anew, and since having reached the pinnacle of hockey fame in their division they have been angling for a game with the seniors hoping to add to their laurels.

Bishop Sherman at Confirmation

Holding confirmation services at Blairmore and Coleman on Friday evening, Rt. Rev. L. Ralph Sherman held the rapt attention of the candidates and people in his address. He spoke on three gardens—the Garden of Eden, the Garden of Gethsemane and the garden of Joseph of Arimathea where Jesus was buried after the Crucifixion.

Though this is a rapidly changing world, and people's minds were distracted by many diverse things, yet they should always remember each other, live mutual thoughts towards the lessons which the Bible teaches in its descriptions of the gardens he mentioned. By doing this greater happiness could be obtained, while we come from God and man from worldly desires.

The candidates in both parishes were presented by Rev. A. S. Partington, rector, and the churches were filled to welcome the bishop, who left following the services, for Calgary.

Four Days for Musical Festival Is Decision

Entries May Also Make Necessary Appointment of Additional Adjudicator

The executive and syllabus committee of the musical festival committee met in the Greenhill hotel on Monday evening, with President G. Pattinson as chairman. Present were T. Guibul, W. G. Moffatt, G. E. Cruckshank, W. H. Moser, Miss M. Powell, Miss B. Trono, Miss M. Charlton, H. T. Halliwell, Mrs. J. H. Farmer, secretary.

Mr. Pattinson opened the meeting urging the co-operation of all committees towards making the 1937 festival successful, and also commended Mrs. Farmer for her efficiency as secretary.

Discussion on the number of entries last year elicited the fact that the festival was so popular and so heavy in a three days festival that assistance would have to be provided or the festival extended to four days. On motion it was decided to hold the festival on April 22, 23, 24 and 25, and that an assistant adjudicator be engaged if the executive deemed it necessary. Mr. George C. Coutts, of Vancouver, was appointed adjudicator, and if not available, Mr. Ronal Gibson, of Winnipeg, who was here in 1934.

The syllabus will be prepared by the secretary and committee and is expected to be ready in April.

W. H. Moser, who has taken a very active part in festivals as an instructor and also on the executive, has been appointed to the Board of Examiners for Western Bands of Musicians, which includes the universities of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Many Visited New School Last Week

Expressions of Admiration and Satisfaction by Ratepayers on Fine Appointments of New Building

It is estimated that about 2,000 people from Coleman and adjacent towns passed through the new school building on the days it was open for the public, before it is opened for the classes following the Easter holidays.

Ratepayers expressed satisfaction that the town has such a fine building, and from remarks heard appear to be of the opinion that the appropriation for its cost has been wisely expended. The people may well be proud of having such a fine modern institution, which takes a place second to none in all of the cities of the province.

It sets a new standard for building construction in town, and is also a splendid example of the work of the local contractor, J. S. D'Apollonia, who commenced excavation on October 8, and handed the building over complete in every detail by the middle of March.

The auditorium particularly brought forth lavish approval, providing a splendid hall for school assemblies which heretofore has been lacking.

The high school had planned on staging a play in the auditorium of the new high school, but owing to circumstances, it was delayed. It is expected that it will be put on some time after Easter.

Mrs. David McCormick of Vulcan, stopped off to visit Mrs. C. F. Dunlop on her way home from Vancouver.

DIXIE PLUG SMOKING TOBACCO

Hazards Of The Highway

In common with residents elsewhere, the people of the prairie provinces are subjected to seasonal dangers resulting in loss of life and property, the incidence and severity of which could frequently be appreciably mitigated with the exercise of more care.

In the winter months on account of severe climatic conditions on the prairies, lives are lost and property destroyed by fire. With the advent of spring when the exigencies of work and a long pent-up desire for outdoor pleasures beckon them into the open, people exchange the hazards of fire at home for the dangers of the highways and the byways. For six or seven months after the spring thaw, one expects to read almost daily of automobile crashes, in which one or more lives are lost and others taken to hospitals with broken bones, severe gashes and contusions and shattered nerves. And yet nine times out of ten these catastrophes could have been avoided with the exercise of more care.

Until recently it was thought that a very substantial proportion of these accidents was due to defects in equipment, weak brakes, ineffective lights, tires in bad condition and the like. Recent analyses of causes of accident, as far as it is possible to determine causes, show, however, that a surprisingly small percentage of accidents is caused by defective equipment, despite the number of decrepit vehicles on the road and the neglect of many drivers to keep their cars and equipment in first class condition.

Experts have come to the conclusion as a result of experience and compilation of available data, therefore, that the human element is the greatest single factor in the appalling toll of life and limb on the highways and this can be translated into terms of carelessness or wilfulness.

In the latter category must be placed the driver who gets behind the wheel with liquor under his belt, the driver who insists on streaking across the landscape, hell bent for leather, in grim determination to beat his previous record regardless of road and traffic conditions and the driver who crowds others so recklessly close to the ditch rather than run the risk of being on the center of the road. Imagine, then, what should be added drivers with glaring headlights who neglect the common courtesy of dimming their lamps at the approach of oncoming cars in the opposite direction.

In other words, it is the consensus of opinion of many authorities, that a substantial proportion of the accidents which provide headlines for the daily papers are due to failure to practise the golden rule: "Do unto others as you would they should do unto you."

For such wilful disregard of the rights of other users of the common thoroughfares publicans can scarcely be too severe or regulations too stringent and greater recourse should be had to cancellation of licences for offences subsequent to a first conviction. The slaughter of the innocents at the hands of offenders is too great to permit of leniency where wilfulness can be proved.

Not the least dangerous of these wilful offences is the practice of "hogging the road" and not the least of these offenders is the driver of the big and heavily laden commercial truck who straddles the crown of the road and refuses to yield an inch to meeting and overtaking vehicles. Not all drivers of these juggernauts, of course, are guilty of this offence, but sufficient complaints have been voiced against this practice during the past year or two, to establish evidence that too many truck drivers are using the highway without discretion and without regard for the comfort and safety of automobile drivers.

Governments can do much to reduce the risk of accident from this source by encouraging other drivers on the highway to report the license number of this class of offender and a series of reports against the same individual might well be taken as prima facie evidence of his guilt, which, doubt it, would be.

Good citizens who themselves observe the decencies of the road and practice courtesy to others could do much to purge the highways of some of its terrors if they would report all cases of palpably wilful actions in violation of the rights of the motoring public.

Hazards of the highways would unquestionably be materially minimized if motor clubs and kindred organizations, in co-operation with the government, would enrol their membership as amateur custodians of the laws of the road and if every right-minded user of the highway would constitute himself a patrol to safeguard the interests of himself and his fellow men and their families.

Will End Air Fatalities

Air Aviation Official Sees Great Advance In Plan Safety

Advancement in aeronautical design will make it possible by 1939 to operate transport planes throughout the year without a single fatality, according to E. R. Breech, chairman of the board of North American Aviation.

Mr. Breech made his prediction before a group of airmen and executives of transport lines and aircraft manufacturing companies at a luncheon given in New York by the Advertising Club to honor Howard Hughes, transcontinental speed ace.

Mr. Hughes, wealthy sportman pilot, spanned the continent on Jan. 19 in 7 hours, 28 minutes and 25 seconds. His average speed was 332 miles an hour or 5½ miles a minute. He said that it would be a hard battle with nature to accomplish greater speed.

On this point Mr. Hughes finished his speech, which had to do mainly with technical and other difficulties in rapid flight.

"I am glad Mr. Hughes deflated speed," Mr. Breech said. "Americans expect the impossible, and usually get it. But I am glad he told about the difficulties so that the public won't expect too much."

Mr. Breech noted that designers were concentrating their efforts on comfort, safety and quiet, rather than speed. In the dozen years of 1928, he said, "you will see comfort, not speed representing the greatest advancement." Engineers also are placing great emphasis on the safety factor, he added.

Captain E. V. Hickenbacker, war ace and general manager of Eastern Air Lines, told the gathering it would not be long before airlines gave passengers "in comfort, what you [Hughes] give them in speed." He said aviation to him now was "a parade of youth and we old-timers feel obsolete."

Sunspot Mysteries

Scientists Hope To Ascertain More About Their Effects Before End Of The Year

Sunspots surpassing in size, number and violence those of 1929, the summer when unprecedented rains flooded the western dust bowl, are predicted for this coming summer.

Already the spots, seen through the world's largest telescope at Mt. Wilson, California, exceed the 1929 average. They totalled about 1,000 last year, and bid fair to set a record for the present century.

It is certain they will affect weather and radio directly. Further mystery of their indirect effects may be partly solved before the summer is over.

Present spots lie in two broad bands across the sun's face, each corresponding roughly to the temperate zones of earth. Their sizes range from continents to black fields larger than the whole earth.

The reason for their position is a mystery astronomers would like to fathom. Only during the "maximum sunspot cycle," as at present, are they seen in the "temperate" zones. In the "minimum cycle," when there are few, the spots gather in a belt near the sun's equator.

They are whirlwinds. But they whirl in the opposite direction now from that of "minimum" spots, near the equator.

Their driving force seems to be electrical and magnetic. They are blinding; their light is ultraviolet rays, which have far more energy and destructive power than atoms at heat.

They cause increased radio static, and are accompanied, near their edges, by bright flares of light, which cause short-wave radio to fade for 10 minutes to half an hour. Their cycles affect weather and crops.

A Deadly Warplane

Holland Has One That Carries 1,000 Pounds Of Bombs

The most deadly of warplanes will be developed shortly at Amsterdam, Holland, for the Royal Dutch Air Force. It is said that it will change radically the aviation world's ideas. It is called the Sythe and is the invention of Anthony Fokker. Looking like a sharp ended winged egg, it has two fuselages and carries 1,000 pounds of bombs. Instead of fast fighters, with short ranges, sent up at intervals to intercept a raid, squadrons of these machines can patrol at varying heights.

Canadian Legion

International Organization Of War Veterans To Promote Peace

The policy of the Canadian legion of exerting every effort toward promoting international harmony and world peace was given a practical turn in the announcement by Brig.-General Alex Ross, Dominion president, of a committee appointed to inquire into a new international organization of war veterans recently formed for a like purpose.

This committee comprises Major Milton F. Gregg, V.C., Dominion head treasurer; J. B. Bowring, general secretary; Lt. Col. E. du la Giraud and Captain W. W. Murray, Secretary, and J. C. G. Herzig of Ottawa.

The organization which has attracted the attention of the legion is known as "the permanent international committee of ex-service men." At present it has representation from 14 countries, including former enemy nations as well as former allies.

It was established at the behest of the British legion last November at a conference in Rome.

In Their Proper Setting

Canadian Mounties Will Be Seen On Horseback At Coronation

The famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police are going back to their mounts. At least the 35 who will represent this branch of the Dominion's law enforcement at the coronation of King George will take along their horses.

It was on their horses and in their scarlet tunics that the Mounted Police became known the world over for their efficiency, loyalty, bravery and resourcefulness. It is only in the movies that they so appear today. In real life as they go about their duties they travel in more modern fashion, by motor car, airplane, motorcycle or in boats. Only "once in a blue moon" are they seen on horseback. For the coronation, however, they are to be on their horses and those who see the Canadian Mounties will view the Mounties in their proper setting. This is as Canadians wish. # Fight Between Nazi Germany and Catholic Church Expected

Berlin.—An open fight between Nazi Germany and the Roman Catholic church appeared in prospect as the result of a vigorous pastoral letter by Pope Pius XI circulated to German Catholics.

The letter, dated March 14 from the Vatican, astounded even German Catholics who accepted the Nazi regime of having violated the German-Vatican concordat of 1933 and encouraging anti-Christian movements.

Principles of the Catholic faith were presented in the holy father's pronouncement in such sharp contrast to the philosophical teachings of Nazism that the Catholic church in Berlin fully expected the Nazi government to cancel the concordat.

Read from the pulpits as "sensichristen," or pastoral letters, the message said, Catholic circles, because of its content and general appeal, was the equivalent of an encyclical although technically did not bear that name.

The letter arrived in Berlin late Saturday night. It was delivered to the various parishes secretly by automobile messengers. At Berlin cathedral it was read by Count Konrad Von Preysing-Lichtenegg-Moos, bishop of Berlin.

Later Sunday afternoon the bishop summoned all Berlin members of Catholic men's societies to a special meeting, in the course of which he told his flock of the gravity of the situation and adjusted them to be prepared for an open fight with the Nazi regime.

Informed Catholic circles regarded the moment as well chosen psychologically for the church to bring its grievances against the Nazi regime into the open. It coincides with the Protestant opposition's fight against the general synodical election which Reichsführer Hitler had ordered held with the approval of the Austrian cabinet of the pro-German Ode Neustaedter-Stuermer.

Neustaedter-Stuermer was quoted as minister of internal security Saturday by Chancellor Von Schuschnigg, and German Catholics believe the pope and the Austrian chancellor were acting in agreement.

The pope's encyclical was in three parts. The first dealt with the Nazi's alleged breach of the concordat, concluded July 22, 1933, to end the conflict between Germany and the holy see.

The second part dealt with faith in God, faith in Christ, the true church, the authority over the pope, and the moral, rights and duties of parents. The third part reasserted the pope's love even for those of his flock in Germany who have strayed from the right path and pray for the restoration of real peace between the church and state.

Report On Relief Camps

Many Men Found Work When They Were Closed

Ottawa.—Disposition of men in relief camps when they were closed last year was described in a final report on the camps tabled in the House of Commons by Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie.

On February 29, 1936, the return stated, there were 20,467 men still in camps. Railway work absorbed 8,125, farm work 641 and other employment 3,376. The rest were provided with transportation to any point within 500 miles described as "home." These included 504 who were medically unfit and needed treatment before being taken of the rolls of the camps.

The relief camps were organized in 1933 by the national defence department to take care of an estimated 70,000 men who were homeless and without employment.

Testing Mechanized Units

British Army Carries Out Manoeuvres On Egyptian Desert

Cairo, Egypt.—While Premier Mussolini of Italy toured neighboring Libya, British and Egyptian troops held the greatest military manoeuvres in Egypt's history.

Some 8,000 British troops engaged in two important mock battles in the desert southeast of Heluan along with planes and tanks. The manoeuvres were considered the initial major test of recently-mechanized units of the British army.

For the first time Egyptian officers assumed executive roles in British army operations.

Large Lumber Deal

Vancouver.—One of the largest lumber deals in recent years in British Columbia was completed with an announcement that the Salmon River Logging Co. Ltd. had purchased 700,000 feet of standing timber on Vancouver Island from the Memekay Timber Co. Ltd. Both are British Columbia companies.

Transport Bill Meets With Defeat In The Senate

Ottawa.—The transport bill was killed in the senate when third reading was defeated 30 to 18.

The division was along party lines. Conservatives voting against the measure and Liberals supporting it. One Conservative, George Lynch-Staunton of Hamilton, voted with the Liberals and two Liberals, D. E. Riley of High River, and William Duff of Antigonish-Guyville, opposed the bill.

After the division, Transport Minister C. D. Howe, who fathered the measure, stated nothing would be done this session to revise the legislation. Although a government measure, it had been started in the senate and had been under consideration before a senate committee for several weeks.

The session will doubtless be considerably shortened as a result of the senate's action. Had the bill been passed on to the house of commons a lengthy debate in that chamber would almost surely have developed.

The senate voted following a debate in which Liberal Leader Leo Dandurand and Conservative Leader Arthur Meighen were in action. The bill was a start in the right direction, Senator Dunphy declared. The principle, the control of rates, was good. No government would allow it to be used to injure any section of Canada.

The bill would have converted the board of railway commissioners into a board of transport with its jurisdiction now exercised over railways extended to cover shipping on the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence, airway traffic and inter-provincial and international highway traffic.

The board of railway commissioners had been fair in exercising control over the railways, Senator Dunphy said, and he was confident if given the additional jurisdiction it would be equally fair in shipping, airway and highway control. He expressed the hope if the bill became law the provinces would co-operate to cover the whole field of highway traffic.

The measure was condemned by Senator Meighen. He agreed that the senate defeat a government measure but this bill was "of such paramount consequence that I do not feel justified in ranging myself with those who would permit this bill to pass."

The whole principle of seeking control of rates on the Great Lakes, which was the basis of the measure, was to be abandoned.

During the weeks the measure was before the senate railway committee representations were made from all parts of the country. Several commercial bodies opposed it, others simply suggested changes and others, including the railways, gave it general support.

When the bill came back to the senate an amendment was inserted that it should not apply to shipping from ocean ports to points in a restricted area which extended from the head of the lakes to Father Point on the St. Lawrence. The bill also excluded ocean coastwise shipping from its operations.

The death of the legislation means the board of railway commissioners will continue to function as before, with its authority restricted to railways and certain matters connected with telephone systems and street railways.

After the vote the senate adjourned till March 30.

To Build Pipe Line

Pian To Handle Fuel Oil For Mine In Great Bear District

Toronto.—Confirming the report from Edmonton that a sub-Arctic pipeline would be built the full length of the Bear River rapids to handle fuel oil for Eldorado Gold Mines, Limited, Gilbert LaBlanc, managing director of Eldorado, said that the line, about 8½ miles in length, would be built as soon as weather conditions permitted.

"We have now, at Eldorado, a total installation of 587 horsepower in Diesel electric units and an additional 307 horsepower, not going into the mine itself," he said. "The oil to oil for the Diesels, gasoline for the power boats comes from the skimming plant at Norman man. The equipment for the plant there, where there are three wells, was taken in by air when mining developments demonstrated that a large and growing market for its output could be anticipated.

"Fuel oil or more specifically, the cost of transporting fuel oil to the property of Eldorado at Great Bear lake has been an important factor in operating charges there," he said. "The 12-month supply must be moved in each year during the comparatively short season of open water. With the rapid recent expansion of production facilities at Eldorado's silver-radium properties, an assurance of sufficient supply is important as well as more economical shipment."

We believe that the new system, which is expected to be in operation this coming summer, will accomplish both."

To Preserve Peace

Is Duty Of Empire Says Britain's Secretary For War

London.—"We must maintain at all times an expeditionary force equipped to the highest point of efficiency, ready at the shortest notice to proceed to any corner of the earth," Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary for war, told the House of Commons.

Plans to make the army more attractive to the recruit were announced by Duff Cooper as he discussed the army estimates calling for expenditure of £82,174,000 ($40,870,000) for 1937, an increase of £29,300,000 (£131,465,000) over 1936.

The major interest of the Empire was the preservation of peace and for that purpose, General Duff Cooper stood, he said. "It is our duty and our endeavor, in a world that daily grows more dangerous, so to equip and prepare the British army that it may continue to fulfill this function and render this service to mankind."

Aid From Japan

Reported Japanese Officers Are Assisting Spanish Insurgents

London.—A number of Japanese officers are aiding the Spanish insurgents in Spain, the diplomatic correspondent of the Manchester Guardian declared.

"It would now appear that the notorious incompetence of General Franco is coupled with a lack of enthusiasm on the part of foreign volunteers (Italians) who believed they were being sent to Africa."

"There also has been some murmuring among their officers. Among the Germans on the rebel side there also seems to be no great eagerness to fight. German military authorities are finding it difficult to get genuine volunteers."

New Finance Plan

Calgary Taxpayers Approve Plan Of Eastern Bondholders

Calgary.—Taxpayers of Calgary approved a "new deal" in civic financing, the "Fortin plan," sponsored by eastern bondholders.

In a plebiscite held in conjunction with an additional by-election, the property owners supported the plan by 4,857 votes to 2,665 against.

The plan was drawn up by Jules E. Fortin, Montreal financial expert. Under it there will be an equalization of the city's bond indebtedness.

There will be cancellation of $4,821,000 of Calgary bonds held by the city, and holders of other outstanding securities totalling $17,463,148 will be asked to exchange them for new debentures maturing Jan. 1, 1962. The new debentures will bear an interest rate of four and one-half per cent, the holders obtaining, by payment in cash, an adjustment between the present rates of five and one-half and six and one-half per cent.

In the by-election George Lancaster, candidate of the Civic Government and Taxpayers Association, was the winner. He defeated George M. Brown, Social Credit nominee, who was an unsuccessful candidate at the November civic election. The vote was: Lancaster, 12,770; Brown, 10,707.

Coronation Choir

Twenty Canadian Singers Are To Assist In Celebration

Toronto.—At least 20 Canadian singers will have places in the coronation choir made up of voices from all parts of the empire for the coronation celebrations in London, it was announced.

Sir Ernest MacMillan, principal of Toronto Conservatory of Music, has been requested by Prime Minister Mackenzie King to inquire what singing stars will be available in Canada. Those selected will pay their own expenses. The tour will cost $10,000.

The twenty singers are to be appointed by Western representatives who will have charge of applications: Saskatchewan, Prof. Arthur Collingwood, University of Saskatchewan; Waterloo, Alberta, Vernon Barford; Anglican cathedral, Edmonton; British Columbia, Stanley A. Blight, Vancouver.

London.—Croydon airport, linked with many spectacular exploits in the history of aviation, will be abandoned as a base by Imperial Airways. The company has decided to create a new airport at Lullingstone, Kent, with fast rail connections to London.

Witnesses said there was an ear-splitting explosion after the rumbling roar that preceded the blast. The roof then, they said, moved up, the walls crashed outward, and the roof fell into the wreckage, crushing those within.

The high school building exploded, flames shot forth for a time. Nearby stood the grade school—empty—itself several hundred pupils having already been dismissed for the day.

Bricks hurtled through the air for a quarter of a mile. Children were decapitated. Some were mangled.

Superintendent W. C. Shaw likened the victims to rag dolls with their clothes torn off.

Some bodies were near the edge of the wreckage.

Rescue workers removed these first nine hundred bodies of children, all under 15, were laid out in Henderson when they were laid out in improvised morgues awaiting identification. Ten bodies of their teachers were brought with them.

The scene was chaotic. Thousands of automobiles blocked all highways leading into this community. Sights-seers and curious thronged elbow-to-elbow with parents of children trapped within the school.

There was an agonizing shortage of doctors and supplies to treat the injured. Emergency calls were broadcast throughout east Texas for physicians and nurses and for bandages. Supply houses emptied their stores.

When all ambulances and private cars had been filled with the dead, anxious fathers and mothers dragged the bodies of still more victims into the school gymnasium, where they were placed end on end to await identification.

Madrid.—Victorious government troops smashed forward 18 miles northeast of Brihuega in Guadalajara province to Navalpotro, only 11 miles from the important insurgent stronghold of Siguenza.

Smashing into the Italian "volunteers" to whom Premier Musolini allegedly had wired congratulations on their "assured victory"—the Socialist battalions plowed along a 30-mile battlefield.

The Italian contingents were reported fleeing all along the line. The militia engulfed town after town which they had yielded at the opening of the Guadalajara campaign.

The advance assumed impressive proportions, it was claimed, as the first troops slogged into Navalpotro in the early hours of the night.

This town is beyond both Almadenes and Abades, the two points where the insurgents broke through the government lines at the beginning of their offensive.

Its capture meant the government had not only recovered lost ground, but advanced into Fascist territory.

Almost for the first time since the war began, they were in a position to menace a crucial insurgent stronghold.

Government artillery, from regaining heights north of Brihuega, about 44 miles northeast of Madrid, harassed the retreating troops, despatched.

Most of the insurgents, however, were reported to have escaped capture, hastily evacuating under cover of darkness and rain. Insurgents were said to have abandoned an important supply of war materials, including 60 trucks, 20 machine guns and 10 field pieces.

More than 200 insurgents captured, advised from the front said, were Italians. The Madrid press hailed the reports in headlines proclaiming the rout of "Italian battalions."

All the newspapers said an Italian general was killed when his automobile turned over and pinned him under the wreckage. None of the rebels identified him.

Many Hundreds Of Children Perish In Texas School Disaster

New London, Texas.—Nearly 400

and perhaps 670 children were killed when a strange disaster took place.

The roof then, they said, moved up, the walls crashed outward, and the roof fell into the wreckage, crushing those within.

The high school building exploded, flames shot forth for a time.

Nearby stood the grade school—empty—itself.

Estimates agreed 399 bodies had been found. Principal Troy Duran said he believed the dead would reach 670.

Disaster demolished the London consolidated school in the heart of the vast East Texas oil fields about 116 miles southeast of Dallas.

Estimates agreed 399 bodies had been found. Principal Troy Duran said he believed the dead would reach 670.

Chaos developed at the scene.

Governor James V. Allred of Texas declared martial law in the precinct, ordered in National Guard troops and instructed that a military court of inquiry be set up to begin an investigation.

Red Cross nurses, doctors by score rushed against time to allay the confusion here—1,000 oil field workers tore at the debris, frenzied parents strove to find their children and hundreds of curious blocked the highways.

Superintendent W. C. Shaw, who helped to contain the explosion, theorized accumulated gas in a space between the floor of the building and the ground undoubtedly caused the explosion. The building was heated by gas-steam radiators and there was no main boiler.

Seven hundred pupils and 40 teachers were in the building—most of them in the auditorium.

It was 3:30 p.m.—just 10 minutes before dismissal hour.

Suddenly with a force of tremendous proportions the walls of the building began to shake; teachers and students alike were trapped.

A low rumble sounded. Many thought it was a boiler explosion. None was sure hours later.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE NEW SCHOOL brings compliments, though the following had just a little sting. A reader of The Journal living in British Columbia, writes: "We were quite surprised to see that Coleman had built such a fine new school."

To which we reply—"Why not?" Too long has Coleman suffered from an inferiority complex, suffering an old barn-like structure for a town hall, which, thank goodness [to be polite] has been improved by veneering it with cement blocks to hide its ugliness. However the new school is really the first good building erected here for many years, and it is hoped that it will set a higher standard for further development and improvements. "The world values you at the value you place on yourself" is a phrase that often occurs to us.

WEAR A shoddy suit of clothes, and you are classed as shoddy, despite what the old adage says about "clothes do not make the man." An untidy appearance usually indicates an untidy individual within from a mental standpoint. There is much to be said in favor of the "Survival of the Fittest."

SOCIAL LEGISLATION has a tendency to further soften weak backbones. Despite the fact that this is a rapidly changing world, it was changing a century ago and many centuries before that, but people weren't sitting down and waiting for governments to help lame ducks over stiles. Had they done so they would have starved, and possibly the world wouldn't have been any worse off. When we are born, we start at scratch. Some have advantages of comfort and more money than others, but we come into the world with nothing in the way of mental faculties and wealth, and we depart with nothing. So if you are born of a rich family or a poor one, the point is that you rise or fall by your own efforts, and if you are what is commonly termed a "weak sister" or incompetent, then you get what you deserve. Ruthless it may be, but it's true. We are just what we are, no matter how much veneer may be plastered on.

THE MOST famous telegram in American journalistic history is to the effect that a reporter, well-known in newspaper circles across the line, was sent to cover a mining disaster by the Philadelphia "North American." Overwhelmed with the immensity of the disaster and attempting to write an opening paragraph which would indicate the horror and emotion of the vast panorama of death and heroism, he began:

God sits to-night on a little hill overlooking the scene of disaster.

The story came into the North American's office on its own wire. City Editor Benn—Big Benn—who had been waiting impatiently for it, looked at the first three words. "Stop," he shouted to the telegraph operator. "And send this." The telegram he sent read:

Never mind disaster interview God

To this story there is an apocryphal ending. It is said that Benn concluded with:

SOME consider it quite an honor to have their photo appear in a newspaper. Others shun publicity. Newspapers seek with avidity the pictures of prominent people or those whose accomplishments are worthy of more than passing notice. And people like to see them, for a picture adds to the interest of a news story. Occasionally a newspaper office is asked by the curious how it is that people get their pictures in the papers. One enterprising news editor informed an inquirer that if he would join the "rum club" he would publish his picture. The curious one of course wanted to know what the membership would be. "A bottle of the best rum" or more if you feel like it, was the answer.

DO NOT infer from this that we get a bottle of rum for every picture we put in The Journal. We wouldn't refuse gift's of this nature, and would publish a picture of a local notable every week, provided the occasion warranted it. Then after taking a copious draught the cranial recesses would become so lubricated that we would knock out at lightening speed on the typewriter the finest story which our flights of fancy might conjure up while the rum was doing its stimulating stunt. Sometimes you dream you are writing the most wonderful story, and when you awake, have pangs of regret that you were unable to write it as it flowed through your brain. That's the kind of story membership in the rum club might produce.

IT IS well that we do not take life too seriously. Serious problems will intrude no matter how light-hearted you may be. Joys and sorrows all must experience. We often thought during the war, you can only live one day at a time, so make the most of it.

READER INTEREST Receptive Audience*No Substitutes Can Do Newspaper Job

No other advertising medium can duplicate the living quality of the newspaper—the newspaper atmosphere of action and motion—which is why so many efforts to produce substitutes for newspapers have failed. William A. Thomson, director of the Bureau of Advertising, declared before the Advertising Club of Los Angeles last week,

Referring specifically to publications known as "throw-aways," Mr. Thomson noted that retail merchants have often backed them in the belief that they could reduce their advertising costs.

"In the 21 months from January, 1932, to September, 1933, twice as many publications of this sort were started as during the nine-year period from 1921 to 1929. Now, of 187 reported as launched over a period of 12 years, 121 discontinued publication, or 64.7 per cent, and 87 of the number collapsed the same year they began.

The Spirit of The Newspaper

"Perhaps such publications have been useful to merchants in some cities as supplements to newspaper advertising... the mushroom growth and the general mortality among them demonstrates that newspaper form and newspaper dress alone do not make advertising mediums. The spirit of the newspaper, the vital spark of the day's news, must be there to kindle the interest of the reader, and it is evident that is the way the majority of newspaper readers feel about throw-aways."

Mr. Thomson remarked that "this experiment of advertisers with these mediums" has been useful in that it has "revealed anew that no other force on earth is able to perform the newspaper's job... And in many communities it has brought home to business people a realization that a good newspaper deserves the wholehearted support of consumer and merchant alike, because of what it means to its community. A sound press is municipal insurance of the higher order."

THIS is the time for merchants to recommend to customers the products and wares they are selling—anything in the way of food, clothing, shelter and many other things. Your advertising in THE JOURNAL that readers understand will ensure greater opportunities of developing worthwhile business.

The United Church

On Friday of this week (Good Friday) there will be a service at 7.30 p.m. Special attention is drawn to this as it will be the regular service fitted for the day. In addition it will be a preparatory service for the Easter Communion.

At this service a class of young people will be received into communicant membership in the congregation. This should be well attended.

The service on Sunday morning will include the usual Easter sacrament of The Lord's Supper. No communion cards will be issued but everyone is asked to make an effort to attend at 11 a.m.

For the evening service a special topic will be prepared under the heading, "The Christian Doctrine of Death." This will fit the season.

All members and adherents and friends of the church are asked to attend as many as possible of these services. The Sunday school will meet as usual.

to parade and addresses by local speakers.

On motion, each lodge was asked to subscribe towards the cost of the day's program. A motion by Fraser and McCulloch was carried to the effect that the committee set its objective the sum of $500 for the day.

Rev. H. J. Bevan suggested that a subscription list be opened to receive donations from the general public, whereby everyone could contribute a small sum, and that the list be published in The Journal.

A school loan was suggested by the suggestions made were a fireworks display, hot dogs and coffee for the children, presentation of a flag for the Girl Guides and sports for the children. The teachers will be asked to be present in their classes, as on the occasion of the King's jubilee celebration two years ago.

A general meeting of the committee will be held on April 8, at 7.30 p.m., to receive the report of the program committee.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE MEETING

Following the above proceedings, the program committee representatives and organization made a motion by Rushton-Meyerchak, that Rev. A. S. Partington be asked to give the Coronation address. On motion of Greenhalgh-Cooke, Mr. George Cook will be asked to give an address.

As it was considered likely that the Dominion government would issue a form of service, details of the program were left over for final arrangements.

A motion by Toppiano-Cooke was passed that Coronation souvenir buttons be purchased from Webster's. Motion was made that the Elk's Lodge make present a small flag to the Girl Guides, in place of the presentation of small flag to the school children, which is usually done annually.

H. T. Halliwell was appointed secretary of the committee. The program committee adjourned to meet this (Thursday) evening at 7.30 in the council chambers.

THE YELLOW BRIAR

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside
By PATRICK SLATER
By arrangement with Thomas
Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

CHAPTER I.—Continued

Coming to Canada, these women continued to suffer and endure as their menfolk cut homesteads on these stony hillsides; but there was a touch of hope thrown in. And where there is hope, there is joy.
One of the finest things Canada ever did was to put a kindly twinkle into the blue-grey eyes of these proud,
poverty-stricken Irishwomen.

Their tongues may have been tart at times, but they wore their knuckles to the bone in the service of their love. "The Scottish Presbyterians may have been the salt of the earth in Upper Canada; but the Irish women gave it sweetness and light. These mothers of Methodist families were quiet, tidy, capable women; and it was a pleasure to watch one of them making ready an evening meal. They were whole-souled, kind-hearted because home-lovers; they were busy homemakers. And among them, it is the home-keeping hearts that are happiest. The mother of a family was proud of her station as such;
and, as a result, she was content to relax and drift quietly into the matron class. Her Irish eyes were smiling. One was not startled those days by seeing the worn eyes of an old woman looking out from a face made up to recall a youth that had faded. Has not every age of a woman's life a natural beauty of its own?

The bodies of these Irish women may have been stiff-necked with a curious family pride that had nothing much to justify it; but that very pride fortified their unconquerable will and helped to keep their menfolk respectable. There was constant in their hearts a depth of love and loyalty, and like my old yellow briar, it burst into bloom at times.
... For her price is above rubies.
She seeketh wool and flax and woth with a will, and stretcheth her hand to the needy. . . .

She tooth and nail to the ways of the world, and scratch not the nose
of idleness.

Favoritely sweet and beauty is vain; but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised.

—The words of King Lemuel.

CHAPTER II.

It was early in the spring of 1847
that I first got to know that young girl's family, as I played around the Tavern Tyrone at Toronto. It is a long journey back, indeed, from life a end to the little boy at the starting of it.

My family were of the poor Irish.
A sailing vessel, returning to Quebec for timber, that year called at an Irish port to load its decks, as cheap cargo, with famished and wasted emigrants on their wild flight
from the famine and the plague.

Woe's me! Unspeakable were the miseries of that long, tempest-tossed voyage in a filthy, fever-stricken ship. Half its human cargo were buried at sea; and as the vessel sailed past Father's Point, the waters of the St. Lawrence for miles had been strewn with bedding tossed overboard by sailors making the decks shipshape for port. As a fat scow had been hoisted up, the wind
near Freshwater, my father said, he was stricken down. He went under shallow earth quickly without benefit of clergy. My mother waited after the manner of Irish women and counted her silver. It was a handful of coppers she had, with a few sixpenny bits and a shilling. A steamboat brought the widow Slater and her small son to Toronto. How fortunate it was she had only one child.

My mother took lodgings with Mr.
Michael O'Hagan in a small frame house that still stands, in tottering
decay, on the east side of York Street, a few doors down from Richmond Street. Our living quarters were upstairs in a small back bedroom, which we shared with a large family. She was only a slip of a girl, and she was one of them black Irish. You know what I mean? There was the mop of raven hair, the swarthy skin and a touch of down on the lip. Beyond the cruel, desolate scenes there had been a sparkle of fun in her eyes, and the tongue of the laughing little baggage had been always on the wag. But the poor little Irish girl was fair straight, now, with the outlandish
ways of the crazy, new-world town,
and sore afraid of its streets infested with protestants and nigger folk.
She was sick at heart; she was homely for the earthen floor of a small cabin, with its friendly smell of burning turf and the sour buttermilk.

My mother got odd scrubbing jobs,
day work like; and I ran about the street. A little lad of eight or nine years has some clear-cut impressions printed at that age on the brain; and they remain distinct and vivid to the end of my days. I got odd jobs myself, splitting wood and doing chores in the morning, for Mistress Kitty O'Shea, who lived in a little frame cottage where Shop-herds Lane now is. She was a jolly, ruddy-faced little body with silver always in her pocket; and she had fashionable ladies lodging with her.
On fine afternoons, Paddy Casey would come round with his open carriage and spanking pair. Mistress Kitty O'Shea and her stylish guests were driven slowly up and down King Street to see the sights and take the air. Of course, I did not understand the business at the time;
but no doubt my friend Kitty wanted
other folk to know the sort of house
she was running.

In 1847, there was plenty going on in Toronto to fill a young lad's mind and keep his face a-gape. We had come from drizzling Donegal where, in the little towns and quarter-acre patches, "he practiced growing small things to eat them skins and all."
Toronto seemed to me a stirring,
big town; and things were in a constant commotion. Then, too, there were the public hangings. Adventure bunted into a fellow round
any corner; and there was lots to eat.

"Grey of Falodon"

Biography Of Britain's Foreign Secretary During Fatal War Years

A man who despised politics, labored unremittingly to keep Britain out of war, and personified in an exceptional degree the qualities of the Englishman at his best—such is the tribute paid to Viscount Grey by Professor G. M. Trevelyan in his biography of Britain's foreign secretary during the fatal years from 1906-14.

In his intimate biography, "Grey of Falodon," the author has recounted faithfully the historic part his subject played in the destiny of his country.

Prof. Trevelyan declared Grey never ceased to analyze his actions which resulted in Britain's entry into the war. During the rest of his life he had most perpetually reverted to the question, trying it again and again from every side, on sleepless nights and blind, solitary days. To the end he could not think what more he could have done to prevent the avalanche of war, the author says.

During the early days of the war
the foreign secretary would go out of his way to avoid a company of recruiters marching down a street packed with cheering throngs. The sight cut him to the heart.

He once said to Lord Robert Cecil: "I used to hope that I was meant to keep the country out of war. But perhaps my real business was to bring my nation into it unitedly."

The biographer replies sharply to Lloyd George's criticism of Grey regarding the invasion of Belgium. In his memoirs Lloyd George contends that at any stage Grey could have secured substantial unanimity in the cabinet respecting Belgium, and that
"had he warned Germany in time of the point at which Britain would declare war the issue would have been different."

In Prof. Trevelyan's view, Lloyd George here "displays more than his normal tenacity." The author says the difficulty was the greater because Lloyd George himself was a neutral.
Grey's colleagues are cited as agreeing the cabinet would not have permitted a threat about Belgium
earlier than the foreign secretary had.

"Lloyd George's retrospective creation of situations that never existed, in order to cast blame on others, is unworthy of the great part he played in the world's affairs," the author observes.

Created Winning Design

Woman Architect Will Decorate Bond Street For Coronation

A young woman, whose hobby is architecture, stood before 300 professional architects in London and criticized their work. She was Mrs.
Acland, wife of the M.P. for Barnstaple. She created the winning design for the decoration of Bond street, known to the world as the street in a contest open to all architects in the country.

Mrs. Acland told the architects that Bond street, known to the world as the "street of style," was

The body was a unique vase representing the steering wheel of a

size.

The vase was shattered when

Strange But True
An umbrella has ribs but no trunk.
A tree has a trunk but no ribs.
A match has a head but no face.
A watch has a face but no head.

A rabbit has hair but no comb.
A river has a mouth but no tongue.
A whip has a tongue but no mouth.

Some Scotsmen have real generous impulses. Take for example, the of the Siamese twins. He sidled up to the twin who took his fancy and whispered: "If you can get away for a little while, I'll buy you a drink."

Early Egyptian Ruler

Discovery Of Body By Archaeologist
Shows He Was Beheaded

The first body of a noble of Egypt to be discovered by the time of the first dynasty of Egypt has been discovered by a young British archaeologist, Walter Emery.

Mr. Emery found it while excavating at Sakara, near the pyramid of Zoser. It has been identified as that of Sabu, governor of the province
under King Zab, fifth ruler of the first dynasty.

The body, decapitated by ancient robbers, was found lying in the burial pit in the centre of a tomb which dates back to approximately 3200 B.C.

Beside the body was a unique vase
representing the steering wheel of a motor car and of about the same size.

The vase was shattered when found, but the fragments retrieved from the sand have been pieced together and sent to the museum at

Pike's Peak was named after Zebulon Pike, but it was known to white men as early as 1700, long before his birth.

Little Helps For This Week

Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.
2 Timothy 2:3.

Where our Captain bids us go,
We're not ours to murmur "No".
He that gives the sword and shield,
Chooses too the battle-field.
On which we fight the foe.

We cannot be surer of anything
than this: that if we cannot sanctify
our present lot we could sanctify no other. Our heaven and our Almighty Father are there, or nowhere. The obstinacy of our lot is given us to fight over; its gloom, its mysteries are for our worship, and its temptations for our faith. Soldiers of the cross, it is not for us, but for our Leader and our Lord, to choose the field, and it is ours to take the station which he assigns and make it fit for the field of death.

The press so often accused of being bought, often wonders why the money doesn't arrive.

Reader Interest Receptive Audience

In a big city a woman "goes shopping"—in a small town she "goes to the store"—there is a world of difference. The big city shopping trip is just an experience searching for "bargains," "going to the store" in the small town is like calling on a friend. She knows the storekeeper. There is time for an exchange of news and views. Purchasing is not done hurriedly. News in the Journal comes up for comment as a matter of course, because the merchant reads the same paper as his customers do. Advertisements in The Journal are talked about too, and often goods advertised are brought to the fore and a sale is made.

More Light Suggested

A suggestion is made concerning the outside lights of the new school on Second street, to the effect that in order to show up the building during the hours of darkness, the lights be turned on. They would act as street lights as well, the cost of which might well be borne by the town and thereby help to provide a little more light which would be appreciated by people generally and at the same time brighten up the place. It would help to show up the building to advantage in the evening hours.
